

"The service has always been attentive and reliable with a consistently high standard of work. We have already recommended Bluething to others..."

Sue Forster, Managing Director - Freeman Business Information

www.bluething.co.uk

Bluething Ltd
Eight Hanover Street, London W1S 1YE
Tel: +44 (0) 207 290 2606
Fax: +44 (0) 207 290 2608

www.bluething.co.uk

Bluething is a specialist website and database development company focused on delivering tailored IT solutions.

what we can do for you

At Bluething, we can work with many clients and provide them with a combination of services to enhance how they manage and deliver their information. While each client comes to us with different needs they generally fall into these categories:

starting from scratch?

If your business has never had a website, we can help you get started. Our phased approach to developing information systems enables you to steadily develop your systems in a cost effective and manageable way.

need to redevelop your current site?

Does your website fail to give your clients what they want? Do you want to deliver your information in a more effective way? Many of our clients have found that by improving their websites, they have not only attracted new customers, but also improved their relationship with their current ones.

adding extra functionality into your website?

You have a website which you are happy with, but you are looking to add customer surveys, gather online payments or send e-mail newsletters. Many of our clients fit into this category. They have a good site, but are looking to improve it.

what we've done

Established in 2002, we have rapidly developed a reputation for delivering high quality products on time and to budget. Our business success has been built around:

- Detailed product specifications and project management
- Realistic costing and delivery schedules
- Long-term product support and development

recent developments

In the past 2 years, we've implemented complex website search engines and specific website monitoring solutions. We've created intranets, extranets, standard business websites, email news alerts and email advertising.

We've also designed and developed flexible and robust databases to enable our clients' information to be easily and quickly accessed.

Through our network of contacts with a wide range of specialist designers, hosting companies, hardware and software suppliers we are able to meet the most exacting requirements and have an excellent record of continued business from clients.

We offer support contracts and further development for all of our systems, as well as hosting and ongoing maintenance.

Give us a call, or email us on info@bluething.co.uk

some of our clients

 www.business-strategies.co.uk

 www.opconsultants.co.uk

 www.pvdatabank.com

 www.epicpartnerships.com

 www.rref.net

 www.efreeman.co.uk

 www.screenedata.net

quotes

"Bluething stand out for their proactiveness, flexibility and desire to produce work of the highest standard"

Gareth Dobson, Senior Content Manager - Experian Ltd.

"... they understand our business needs. As we grow, Bluething provide us with new ideas and insights into how our Internet presence can grow with us."

Jane Fear, Operations Manager - Oxford Property Consultants

For more information see our website on

www.bluething.co.uk